WHAT DOES THE PUNISHER USE WHEN HE HAS COCKROACHES?

DEATH
CON

The Punisher doesn't fool around, and when he has a bug problem, he needs a spray that doesn't fool around. New Death-Con uses the latest in high-tech insecticides to infiltrate bugs where they live, hunt them down and kill them without mercy. And, thanks to its special new formula, Death-Con actually prolongs the death of insects; making sure they feel as much pain as possible before they die.

DON'T JUST KILL THEM.

PUNISH THEM!

YOBASIC
PUNISHMENT

FROM THE EDITOR: Take a Wakanda Wild Side!

Dilemma: Last year's Swimsuit Special was such a big hit, how do we top ourselves this year?

Our swimsuit shoot director, super-heroine Janet Van Dyne, considered that question as she searched the multiverse high and low for the perfect spot. She considered Monster Island, the snowy mountains of Wundagore, remoter spots of the Savage Land, and the beaches of Madripoor, to name but a few.

Last spring, as she sat at her desk with this overwhelming variety of locales swimming in her head, one little phone call brought the mountain to Mohammed. This particular "majestic mount" was in the form of Jan's old pal, His Majesty King T'Challa, of the African kingdom of Wakanda. He called to announce his upcoming marriage, invite her to his week-long engagement party, and find out if she could recommend a good New York photographer for the event...

Could she?! Well, the lightbulb lit, and Jan's bold suggestion to photograph all the party guests for the Swimsuit Special became an instant hit. His Majesty was greatly amused by the idea of his engagement party pics appearing in a New York fashion mag, and Jan's reminding him of the Weekly World Inquirer's unflattering illicit photos of T'Challa and his fiancée Monica Lynne on the Gold Coast beach the month before clinched the deal.

True to her word, Janet and her staff of photographers have tastefully and artistically captured the auspicious occasion, with its A to Z index of celebrity super-types, on 40-something pages of breathtaking Wakandan backdrops. There were so many fabulous photos, we didn't know what to cut—so we didn't! Sorry, no sports articles this issue, but we didn't think anyone would mind a double-batch bevy of beach beauties.

Warning: Prolonged exposure to the Marvel Swimsuit Special may cause heart palpitations, flushed skin, and shortness of breath!

Dear Marvel,
I have three things to say about MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE:

- 1) I loved it.
- 2) I loved it.
- 3) I loved it.

Thank you.

Anthony Lauderson

Dear Editor,

I am writing to make some suggestions and comments about your first issue of MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE. I really liked it! It's the kind of magazine you would see on a Marvel planet. How often are you going to put out the magazine? Every month would be nice!

I think that if you start publishing it every month you should elaborate on it. One suggestion I have is for you to have a super hero of the month/year. You could interview the super hero, have a whole page poster of him, tell about their powers and how they got them (if they weren't a mutant). My vote for that position is Darkhawk. He is coping with school, his father's death, his super hero powers, people trying to kill his mother and that bad guy, Bazin. Thank you.

Aaron Heiser

Ladson, SC 29456

Dear Marvel,

As a female comics fan I was very happy to see that MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE had as many swimsuited guys as girls. I especially liked the Wonder Man picture by JR Jr. (I assume JR is John Romita Jr.). He can go swimming with me anytime! How come you didn't have more X-Men? I mean Wolverine and the Beast are cute, but they're a little too hairy to be sexy. Can you put Cyclops, Gambit, Colossus and maybe the new guy Bishop in it next time? They're my favorites. By the way, do you think that next year you can get Cable to wear that leopard-spotted bikini?

Vicki Montana
506 Bellevue Ave.
Yonkers, NY 10703

Sorry, Vicki, but we couldn't talk Cable into wear those leopard-print bikinis, but, we did manage to get another mutant to put them on. Check out page 47. We think you'll be pleasantly surprised!

Dear Swimsuiters,

Totally cool! MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE was the best thing you guys ever did. The pin-up pictures of the girls was the best part. The X-Men women looked great! If you ever do another magazine, I think that each of the girls should get their own page, just like the picture of Psylocke, which was my favorite. I also liked the shot of the "bad girls." The White Queen and Black Cat were especially awesome! I didn't really like the articles; there should have been more pictures. I thought the Super Olympics was a pretty good idea though. If you guys do another one, could you put in more pictures? Thanks for a great magazine.

Dear MARVEL ILLUSTRATED,

I'm a seventeen-year-old from England. I'm writing to tell you that I have a problem. I have fallen in love with the picture of Mary Jane in your MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE. When I first saw it, I couldn't take my eyes off of it, I couldn't believe how beautiful it was! The artist, Joe Jusko, is a genius! I hope he does more stuff for you in the future. I couldn't believe my ears when I heard that you were going to make a door-size poster of it. I bought the poster and put it up on the ceiling of my room so I can see it every morning and night. My girlfriend is getting upset with me and wants me to take it down, but I don't want to. What should I do?

Ian Patrick
(Address Withheld)

Get over it. Yes, M.J.'s stunning, but she's also happily married, Ian. Them's the breaks.

Dear MARVEL ILLUSTRATED,

Wow! You guys are geniuses! Doing a parody of the SPORTS ILLUSTRATED SWIMSUIT ISSUE with Marvel characters was a great idea. MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE combined my two favorite things in the world: beautiful women and Marvel Comics! That Mary Jane centerfold was hot! The Psylocke, the Storm, and the Boom Boom ones were gorgeous! The one of all the X-Men women was incredible! The only thing I would change is the articles. I would do less articles and more pictures. Also, how come we didn't get more pictures of the Super Olympics? Anyway, let me say again that I loved this issue, and I can't wait till you do another one. So, until Professor X wears a wig, make mine Marvel!

Dear Bobbie Chase,

I really got a kick out of your magazine. As a longtime fan of Marvel (I've been collecting comics for over ten years), I enjoyed seeing some of my favorite characters in a way I've never seen them before. I also enjoyed your Super Olympics idea; I've always thought that a sports competition between super heroes would be a great idea. My absolute favorite part was the phony "advertisements." I think the best ones were, the Beast for Ultra-X shampoo, the Wolverine deodorant, and the Thor disposable razors (I guess now that the new Thor has a beard, he doesn't use them anymore). I was wondering if you were going to do another MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE next year. Also, I would like to know if you were going to do another MARVEL: THE YEAR IN REVIEW. I know that you also made this and I enjoyed it every bit as much as THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE.

Robbie Warnock

As you may already know, Robbie, MARVEL: THE YEAR IN REVIEW 1991, came out some months back but may still be available at your local comic shop.

Dear Swimsuit Staff,

After reading your MARVEL ILLUSTRATED: THE SWIMSUIT ISSUE, I just had to write in to tell you how much I loved it. I thought it was great. The art was awesome, the articles were interesting, and the ads were hilarious. I was especially pleased to see the "Note From Our Sponsor" article mentioning the importance of preserving our great natural resources. I know that the Savage Land doesn't exist, of course, but the point you made about environmental issues is just as true and important for our own natural resources as it is for the Savage Land. Thanks again for bringing this important issue to the awareness of comic fans everywhere.

These native birds used to be the most colorful, beautiful sight in the Wakandan skies. But when the Wasp, Guardian, Meggan, and Aurora joined them for some early morning aerial antics, these feathered fantasies found themselves taking a back seat to the flying females. The Wasp sports an always trendy solid color bikini while Guardian wears a functional yet formfitting circuitry bikini. Meggan displays her fish print two-piece with Rio cut bottoms. And last but not least, Aurora boasts a rousing wrap-around one piece. All designs by Shoemaker.

In old Wakandan legend says that if a brave soul were to look into the dark, forbidding waters of Twisted Visions Lake by the light of a full moon, he would behold frightening images of good, evil, mercy, and vengeance, of unearthly spirits and demons. We don't know if this legend is true, but when the Ghost Rider and John Blaze showed up for a midnight swim, we didn't stick around to find out!

*C*amouflage: a means of concealment that creates the effect of being part of the natural surroundings. Although we don't think anyone would confuse X-Factor's bewitching beauty Polaris with a palm tree, she can't hide the fact that her luxuriant emerald tresses make her the perfect complement to this lusciously lovely landscape. Her X-quisitely exciting X-cut bikini by Stroman.

*T*he women of Excalibur may have seen many different dimensions in their travels, but here they give us a look at the latest dimension in swimwear.
